

Headache

Headaches can originate from a number of sources, one of which is the neck. Headaches caused by the neck are known as cervicogenic headaches.

Cervicogenic headaches tend to originate from the upper cervical spine, a region that has nerves supplying the head and scalp as well as a number of muscles that attach directly onto our skull. Extensive tension or strain to the muscles, ligaments and discs in this region can cause the sensation of pain as well as light headedness or dizziness. Typically these headaches are felt at the base of the skull or behind the eye but this can vary significantly.

Headaches originating from the neck are generally accompanied by other symptoms such as limitations in neck movements and neck pain. They are frequently seen in people who spend prolonged periods in poor postures such as working all day at computers or driving. They are occasionally associated with stress and tension and can also be caused by traumatic injuries to the neck (i.e. car accident).

It is important to have a physiotherapy assessment to determine if the headache is coming from the neck. If this is the problem, treatment can be aimed at relieving the stiff joints, stretching the tight muscles, or strengthening the muscles to significantly reduce the problem. Correcting poor postures and addressing stress can also be vital in fixing this very painful and persistent problem.

If symptoms persist, we will communicate with your G.P. or other relevant medical practitioner to ensure further investigation and management

Altona

Cnr Leisure & Mills St
Altona 3025
P: 9392 2288
altona@symmetryphysio.com.au

Altona Meadows

329 Queen Street
Altona Meadows 3028
P: 9360 9744
altonameadows@symmetryphysio.com.au

Port Melbourne

101 Beach Road
Port Melbourne 3207
P: 9645 2183
portmelbourne@symmetryphysio.com.au

Hoppers Crossing

333 Old Geelong Road
Hoppers Crossing 3029
P: 9369 4999
hoppers@symmetryphysio.com.au

Tarneit

412 Derimut Road
Tarneit 3029
P: 8742 2088
tarneit@symmetryphysio.com.au

Taylors Lakes

1/900 Old Calder Hwy
Keilor 3038
P: 9390 8488
taylors@symmetryphysio.com.au